The Challenges in Preserving Privacy in Awareness Systems

Sameer Patil, Alfred Kobsa

Institute for Software Research,
University of California, Irvine
Irvine, CA 92697-3425, USA
{patil, kobsa}@uci.edu

ISR Technical Report # UCI-ISR-03-3

April 2003

Abstract: Awareness of the activities of one’s co-workers is valuable for effective collaboration. The need for awareness is however frequently in conflict with privacy concerns of the people involved. This paper discusses various factors and principles that influence and inform a privacy-preserving design of awareness systems.